Sharing the latest science and technology from Plymouth Sound and the western English Channel

SmartSound Plymouth - What do you do?

26th June 2015, Plymouth Marine Laboratory, PL1 3DH

Join us at this all day free event aimed at scientists, engineers and those who undertake related work from all sectors (i.e. industry, academia, government) in the Sound or the western English Channel. This initiative aims to establish a strategic coastal partnership to improve the coordination of current technologies, monitoring and facilities in the vicinity of Plymouth. Striving to promote and develop this marine environment for the testing and development of future marine technologies, whilst also continuing to produce a highly skilled workforce through training and education. There are opportunities to present your work and network.
